Literacy Night

READ, WHITE, and BLUE...all we need is YOU!

You are invited to our literacy night celebration on Tuesday, November 10, beginning at 5:30. Various grade levels will have booths set up with informative activities that will help you help your child to grow as a reader. The book fair will be open to shoppers, and you can even go by and check out our computer lab. Hope to see you there!

Flu Vaccination

Health Centers in Schools is once again teaming up with the East Baton Rouge Parish School System in providing free influenza vaccinations for students. Your child will receive a consent package on November 11, 2009 for this free flu vaccination. This is for seasonal influenza, not swine flu (H1N1).

All of the questions in the packet must be answered completely and the consent form signed for your child to receive the free vaccination. I urge you to return your consent form to the school as soon as possible. The consent form is the last page (yellow) of the packet your child is bringing home about this project.

This vaccination will be in the form of an inhalant known as Flumist, and it is for the average, healthy child. Children with asthma, chronic disease or immune deficiencies should receive an injection from their personal physician rather than receive the Flumist vaccine at their school.

Otherwise, students will receive the Flumist in our school under the advisement of Health Centers in Schools, registered nurses and trained medical personnel.

The vaccination will be administered on Monday, November 16, 2009.
